REVOLT OVER ROUND-UP OF SLAVE LABOR

Guerilla Warfare Rages In Streets of Paris; German Trains Are Attacked.

Murder Marks Spreading of Unrest in Belgium, Norway and Poland.

(By United Press)
LONDON—More than 200 German soldiers have been killed in the last 72 hours by French patriots revolting against a Nazi-Vichy attempt to round up 400,000 Frenchmen for Adolf Hitler's slave legions in Germany, a fighting French spokesman said today.

Street fighting between patriot guerrilla bands on one side and German troops and Gestapo agents on the other has blazed in Paris and several other French cities, the spokesman said.

He credited the patriots with killing at least 60 German soldiers every 24 hours, including at least one in every department (county) of France.

Fighting French quarters believed the Germans now may launch a terror campaign, including the wholesale shooting of hostages, in an effort to smash the patriot resistance.

One source said Hitler might attempt to provoke a premature revolution in France as a justification for wiping out the patriots before they can join forces with Allied troops in the coming invasion.

Reports of new incidents of sabotage and murder directed against the Germans and the Pierre Laval government poured into Gen. Charles De Gaulle's headquarters through French underground channels.

German trains, supply dumps and barracks were attacked in many places, it was said. Patriot guerrilla bands were credited with killing 23 German officers without loss to themselves.

NO POLITICS?

Bridges Wants Explanation of Allied Appointment.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Senator Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) says that so far as he's concerned, it rests with the administration to show there was no political deal in connection with the nomination of James V. Allred of Texas to the fourth circuit court of appeals.

Bridges was a leader in the fight against President Roosevelt's nomination of Edward J. Flynn, New York City Democratic leader, as minister to Australia. The nomination was withdrawn.

Opponents of the nomination contended that when Allred resigned a federal judgeship last year to make his unsuccessful race for the Democratic senatorial nomination, he did so with the understanding that if he were defeated the president would reappoint him to the federal judiciary.

WAR FUND HITS $22,786 TOTAL

72 Mansfield Firms Added To 100 Per Cent List In Red Cross Drive.

With the addition of 72 Mansfield firms to the 100 per cent contribution list, Mansfield's Red Cross fund rolled closer to the half way mark today with $22,786 subscribed toward the city's quota of $45,500.

Yesterday's receipts totaled $3,780, a sum falling short of expectations due to inclement weather which hindered the workers. However, with the weatherman's permission, the next two or three days are expected to see large sums flow into the Red Cross coffers.

In the rural areas workers are steadily working toward their goal of $3,000 although reports are as yet scattered to give a fair conception of their efforts. Shelby is progressing rapidly in its drive for a $10,500 fund.

The long list of new names were added to the honor roll of firms, whose employees have been enlisted 100 per cent, in the war fund campaign, follow: City engineer's (Continued on Page 14, Col. 3)

Ash Wednesday Ushers In Lenten Season Tomorrow

Mansfield and Richland county churches prepared today for the opening of the Lenten season tomorrow with Ash Wednesday services.

Mid-week as well as Sunday services will be held in most of the churches throughout the entire five-and-one-half week period preceding Good Friday, April 23, and Easter, April 25.

Six west side churches will meet in the first of a series of union services at 7:30 p. m. tomorrow when Rev. D. N. Roller, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, will speak in the Park Avenue Baptist church on the subject, "I Believe In God." Rev. A. L. Linder, pastor, will be in charge.

Pastors of the host churches will preside at subsequent weekly meetings of these participating churches: Grace Episcopal, St. Luke's Lutheran, First Christian, First Presbyterian, First Congregational and Park Avenue Baptist. The theme, "I Believe," will be followed.

Lutheran ministers of 66 United Lutheran churches of central Ohio held a pre-Lenten retreat today in St. Paul's Lutheran church.

Ash Wednesday, so called from the Roman Catholic custom of strewn ashes, made by burning consecrated palms from the previous Palm Sunday, on the head as a sign of penitence, dates from the tenth century.

First Dim-Out Success, New One To Be Staged Tonight At 9

Gratified with the success of Monday's test dim-out embracing the city's southwest residential area and barely touching commercial zones, an army of air wardens auxiliary police, the entire city police department personnel and Civilian Defense officials will patrol Mansfield's business district during the second sectional dim-out at 9 tonight.

Tonight's dim-out area will be everything north of the center of Park avenue west and west of the center of North Main street to the north and west corporate limits. The warning signal at 9 p. m. will be a steady tone of the air raid sirens, to be followed almost immediately by a wailing alarm and ending in about 20 minutes with a steady "all clear" blast.

"Superficially at least," Judge G. E. Kallbelsch, co-ordinator for the Office of Civilian Defense, said today, "Mansfielders responded splendidly in last night's sectional demonstration. It is to be hoped we will have the same full co-operation in areas including commercial and industrial zones."

"I am amazed," declared Police Captain Jesse Schwab, defense commander after less than a dozen alleged violations were reported at the close of Monday's test. "Offenders will be called in to explain why lights were left burning curtains weren't drawn or illumination otherwise permitted."

"Every block in the southwest sector," Police Chief Meade K. Bates asserted, "complied splendidly. General hospital was beautifully blacked out and not one (Continued on Page 2, Col. 4)

SCHOOL FIRED

Hoodlums Blamed For $15,000 Blaze in Shaker Heights.

CLEVELAND (AP)—The third school fire in greater Cleveland within 10 days caused estimated damage of $15,000 at Shaker Heights junior high school today, several hours after police arrested a 30-year-old man suspected of setting more than a score of blazes in east side apartment houses and automobiles.

Fire officials said all three school blazes were incendiary.

J. W. Main, clerk of the Shaker Heights board of education, blamed the latest school fire on a "gang of young hoodlums." Books, school records and supplies were destroyed in seven rooms, including the library, of the million dollar building, the clerk said.

Similar fires caused approximately the same loss at the Taft school in Lakewood last Saturday and at the Ridge road junior high school in Parma Feb. 28.

Congress Reaction Mixed at Sharp Retort of Standley to Second Front Talk.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Undersecretary of State Sumner Welles said today that Ambassador William H. Standley's statement in Moscow that the Russian people were not completely informed of American lend-lease aid to the Soviets, was made without prior consultation with the government in Washington.

(By United Press)
WASHINGTON Barring quick and unequivocal repudiation by President Roosevelt, Ambassador William H. Standley's sensational complaint against Russian concealment of American war aid apparently must be accepted as a direct Washington rebuke to Premier Josef Stalin.

Standley, a diplomat who formerly was chief of naval operations, charged that Americans were being misled into giving millions to aid the Russian peoples whereas the Russian people were not even aware they were being helped.

He hinted of Russian refusal to exchange military data with her Allies—a policy generally acknowledged and regretted by military men here. Standley went further to warn that, under the circumstances, congress might balk at further lend-lease aid.

Congressional reaction was mixed but on the whole confident lend-lease would continue. Sen. Charles McNairy (R-Ore.), did not think Standley's blast would interfere with enactment of lend-lease legislation and (Continued on Page 14, Col. 4)

Rep. Luce Told Meeting With FDR Will Be Social.

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Clare Boothe Luce (R-Conn.), today said she had received a letter from President Roosevelt's Secretary, Stephen T. Early, saying that President Roosevelt's meeting with 120 freshmen house members tomorrow "will be social."

The new congressman received the letter after she had written the president a letter of acceptance in which she also attacked the "swollen and wasteful bureaucracies that have burgeoned through the years."

Questioned about reports that early described the meeting as "strictly social, not political," Mrs. Luce said: "I never assumed that the meeting was to be political in the sense of political parties. I assumed that we might discuss the war."

Where Foe Hides

To the north, west of Gabes, and still farther north, near Faid Americans and British are closing in on other Axis forces.

QUAKE SHAKES CITY'S HOMES

Earth Tremors Rattle Dishes and Windows; No Damage Reported in Area.

More puzzled than alarmed, Mansfielders last night felt their homes shake and heard their dishes and windows rattle in the city's first earthquake in six years.

Believed to have originated about 30 miles southwest of Cleveland in the direction of Mansfield, the tremors shook the entire Lake Erie and Lake Ontario area for more than a minute, starting at 11:23 p. m. The quake was most severe in northcentral and north-eastern Ohio.

Hundreds of Mansfielders said they felt their homes quiver and a number of persons were awakened by the tremors. No damage was reported in the area affected by the quake. The News-Journal received a number of calls this morning from city residents who wanted to know "what caused the house to shake."

Some Mansfielders said the quake sounded as if their furnaces had exploded, shaking their houses. Residents of the southwest section of the city who had their first dim-out earlier in the eve (Continued on Page 2, Col. 8)

Ernie Pyle Brings War To Your Door, Captain Writes

"Follow Ernie Pyle's writings, and you'll have a good idea of where I am and what I'm going through," writes former Mansfielder Capt. Winfield Grant Scott of Pittsburgh to his brother, Tom Scott, 481 Marion avenue.

Captain Scott tells of meeting The News-Journal's front line columnist in Africa, and indicates their paths have crossed on numerous occasions.

A former Mansfield high school basketball player, Captain Scott is a veteran of World War No. 1. He got into action early in this war, returning to service with the Pennsylvania National Guard.

His letters, telling of his experiences in Africa, compare well with Ernie Pyle's colorful accounts of front line action. Captain Scott tells of attending dinners given by high French officials, and also attending one dinner as the guest of an Arab chieftain.

"I took off my shoes upon entering the Arab's home, as is customary," writes Scott, "but when the Arabs saw the holes in my socks they suggested I put the shoes back on."

Allies Gain In Three Sectors, Slash Rommel

Destroy 50 Tanks As Nazis' Sixth Attack Fails, Knock Out 17 Axis Planes Over Mediterranean; Reds Sweep Toward Vyazma.

BULLETIN
NEW YORK (INS)—Evacuation of Vyazma, key rail center on the central front and last German stronghold on the crushed enemy salient before Moscow, was reported under way today by the Nazi-controlled Jeloy radio of Norway.

(By Associated Press)
Field Marshal Erwin Rommel was declared officially to have lost 50 tanks and fallen back into the hills along the Mareth line in southern Tunisia today after six violent but unsuccessful thrusts against the British Eighth army, and Axis setbacks were reported in two other sectors of the Tunisian battle theater.

In the north, an Allied communique said, the Germans were forced to withdraw after launching an attack near Tamera, seven miles west of Sedjenane and 42 miles west of the big Axis naval base at Bizerte.

Allied troops captured about 200 prisoners before the Germans retreated, it was announced.

In lower central Tunisia, French troops operating near the Chott Djerid region 100 miles northwest of the Mareth line, occupied the town of Tozeur, 50 miles southwest of Gafsa.

In the skies, Allied fighters and bombers inflicted "considerable damage" on Rommel's retreating armor and transport, while other United Nations airmen shot down 17 Axis planes out of a 50-plane formation on a sweep out over the Mediterranean.

A bulletin from Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower's headquarters said Rommel's forces had withdrawn deeper into the Mareth fortifications after his abortive sallies from the line.

An Italian communique noted only "local activity" while front-line dispatches said Lieut. Gen. K. A. N. Anderson's British First army continued active patrol forays in the north and American patrols captured 90 Italians 20 miles west of Gafsa in central Tunisia.

Despite powerful reinforcements of armor and troops, Rommel's fierce offensive thrusts were declared to have "completely failed" against the firepower of Gen. Sir Bernard L. Montgomery's artillery ranged on the approaches to the 60-mile-long Mareth defense works.

Other major developments in the European conflict: WESTERN AIR WAR—Giant RAF bombers returned to the assault on the German homeland overnight, blasting the Nazi party shrine at Nuremberg in southern Germany and hitting other targets in the western Reich.

SOVIET FRONT—Red army shock troops, battering the Germans into swift retreat from Moscow to Smolensk, were reported to have captured 20 villages and driven within less than 20 miles of the key Nazi stronghold at Vyazma today.

London military quarters declared the city appeared doomed. On the northern flank, Soviet troops were reported to have reached the upper Dnieper river northwest of Vyazma after driving on from newly captured Sychyok.

SUCCESS: Knox Reports Subs Hurt Japs, Warns Of Air Power

(By Associated Press)
Secretary of the Navy Knox declared today that Japan was experiencing ever greater difficulty in supplying her far-flung network of island bases in the southwest Pacific and said "our submarine campaign continues to be very successful."

Knox told newsmen in Washington that Japanese shipping losses raised "a most serious factor" in Japan's military future.

"We're growing stronger than we have ever been in the Solomon Islands area," he added, and commented that the Pacific situation generally was in a state of suspended animation.

Meanwhile, twin official warnings were sounded against any tendency to discount Japan's air strength in the wake of the big Allied victory over Japanese sea-borne reinforcements on route from New Britain to New Guinea last week.

"The Japanese air forces are increasing in strength here, notwithstanding his past losses and defeats," said a spokesman at Gen. Douglas MacArthur's headquarters in Australia.

"Any disparaging account of his (the enemy's) air potential is not only incorrect but dangerous."

At the same time, Australia's prime minister John Curtin stressed the need for more bombing planes and declared that last week's destruction of a 22-ship Japanese convoy in the Bismarck sea did not mean that the Allies (Continued on Page 2, Col. 2)

TARGET: Nuremberg Blasted By Strong Force Of RAF Planes

(By Associated Press)
LONDON—A strong force of RAF bombers attacked Nuremberg and targets in western Germany last night, the air ministry announced today.

"Last night aircraft of the bomber command were out in strength over southern Germany with Nuremberg as the main objective," the communique said.

Nuremberg was last hit by Allied planes in a heavy raid on the night of Feb. 25.

Seven bombers failed to return from last night's raid.

One German plane which attempted to intercept the British bombers was shot down, the announcement said.

Some four-motored Lancasters participated in the attack, and at least two squadrons of Canberrans took part.

(The German high command, in a communique broadcast by the Berlin radio asserted 17 planes were shot down, but failed to make clear whether this score was supposed to be the result of defense against the night raiders alone or against yesterday's day raiders and the night bombers. The Ger-

HINGTON—A most amazing and unexpected rackup in Axis airpower seems to be taking place. It continues, and if it is as real as it is to be, the war just might possibly go our way faster than we have dared to hope. Nothing can happen when you find that the report of Maj. Gen. George C. Kenney's slashing of the Japanese convoy is substantiated. Our air forces put down an entire Japanese convoy of 22 ships, and brought down 72 planes, and probably 23 more. That was achieved with a loss of only three planes and 12 men who were lost with the one bomber and two fighter planes. That isn't attrition, it is annihilation at low cost.

At the other end of the Axis enemy airpower also appears to be sagging. It has been little in evidence on the Russian front. In addition to growing production, other circumstances contribute to the swift change of balance that is taking place in the air. The superiority of Allied planes and of Allied guns and ammunition, must be part of it. Americans are showing the same natural aptitude plus the most modern training enable us to pass the Axis in man-for-man skill in the air. German and Japanese production may be far less than we have supposed, or possibly curtailed by production difficulties. Some think that in Germany fuel shortage is hampering operations.

Anyway, we have come a long way from the Battle of Britain in the summer of 1940 when every Allied plane had to be hoarded, held back for the climax of the German attack on England. Now we want to put the Axis planes into action. Attrition will defeat Germany and Japan. It cannot defeat us. If we lose plane for plane with the Axis or two planes for one of the Axis, we win. But it is being done without paying any such cost. And if you contrast the cost of Commando raids against the bomber losses on these attacks against Nazi submarine bases, the airplane is the least costly in lives.

AIR ENOUGH--

By Westbrook Pegler

TOIT, Mich.—The thought surely has occurred to Adolf Hitler long before this, so it is putting ideas into his head to speculate damage he could do with just one air-raid riot comparable to any of the great mass on his own manufacturing centers in Germany and France. One of those captured volitional block-busters which the British have been dropping on Essen, Cologne, Munich and Hamburg, dumped through the roof of the Willow Run bomber plant, would not only smash the building but obliterate the machinery, so carefully planned, built and installed, which is now producing a respectable portion of the bomber force of the United Nations and is steadily increasing its output.

At least a year would pass before the works could be rebuilt and put back into action, and more promised him by the bombers off the Willow Run line.

Over big bomb destroying one of the plants during airplane engines, and others down a area, would either demolish other buildings or machinery from which the United States, Russia and presumably China, are g tanks, guns, armored tank destroyers and r mangle the equipment so badly that there little salvage. It may be necessary to most of the wreckage and start over and new steel construction and new machinery.

It means loss of output during of clearing and rebuilding, idleness for thousand workers, skilled at special tasks, not to be relocated in other cities, loss of quarters, loss of drawings and records and morale, not only on the scene of the disaster over the country and among the fighters here. Already short of man-power the States, moreover, would have to use million-days and somehow find a staggering of scarce materials for the rebuilding. In h raid, Hitler might set most of Detroit the hour of Pearl Harbor or even further extension of the war by possibly another 10,000 or twice that many American lives a lost in battle.

a gruesome thought indeed, but not on the reverse for it can be assumed that is on Hitler's own centers of production

Y NOW AND THEN someone wonders in lic or in print about the advisability of to allow after-dark revelry such as is l by the New York night clubs. Some of rts say the man in uniform objects to it. ink it makes him feel the country isn't he war seriously.

hat I say bosh and bunk, not for myself, because how would I know, but for the army and navy men I've discussed it with.

Their answer is always "Where do you think we head for when we get to town?" and they emphasize how depressed they'd feel if New York and places like New York suddenly went into mourning. The boys in the service would be more annoyed than grateful if they thought people were going to stop laughing and playing a little after hours, be-matter how far away from the amusement they get, they like to know that somewhere is a change of scenery and a little fun to come home to on furlough and after then you're Hitler and that's what the boys are so busy fighting to stop.

The lights are dim and the streets are denuded of autos, but this town seems more like the Gotham of old than it has in years, because Jimmy Durante is back in town and singing in a night club. True, he's in the mirrored and elaborate Copacabana instead of a 52nd street joint, and he's doing a single now instead of clowning with Clayton and Jackson. But it is the Schnozz himself who is among us.

Any veteran of the prohibition era who heard Jimmy warbling "Inka-Dinka-Do" or "You Gotta Go" will agree to that Jimmy and his king-sized nose belong with the epic figures of the past. Had he been born in Grecian times, undoubtedly Homer would have worked him into the Odyssey, and the king-sized nose would have come down to us as some endless cavern through which Ulysses wandered for years.

Censor stories always amuse me. Jane Pickens forwards the account of a young lady who received a much blacked out letter from her soldier boy abroad. Near a line which read "The nasty old censor won't let me tell you where I am," was pencilled in: "The nasty old censor is only doing what little he can to protect the nasty old United States." . . . It's things like rationing that remind us the best things in life are free. Maybe a revival of the song of that name, from "Good News," would be timely and morale-aiding. . . . Few people realize how quickly a pint of blood is restored to the body after it's been lost. I hope a reminder of that fact will help to swell the Red Cross blood bank.

STUDY CUSHION TO AID JOBLESS AFTER THE WAR

Ohio Senators Consider Tax on War Industries to Aid Unemployed.

(By International News Service) COLUMBUS—The Whittemore bill, to increase the unemployment compensation fund through surtaxes on war industries and thus cushion the post-war shock of loss of jobs by possibly a million Ohioans, was under consideration today by the senate commerce and labor committee.

BUC Administrator Heischel Atkinson told the committee last night that his bureau was preparing for a reduction of as much as 30 per cent in the number of workers in the state when the war ends.

There was no opposition to the bill voiced by the half-dozen industry spokesmen who appeared before the committee, and all agreed with Atkinson that "it would be wise to figure against the worst possibilities."

Atkinson declared that there are now about 2,000,000 Ohioans employed who are covered by unemployment insurance, an increase of 650,000 in the last five years, and that as many as half of them might lose their jobs in a post-war readjustment period, when war industries would fold.

The war-risk surtax would range from 1-10th of one per cent to one per cent of payrolls, in addition to existing merit rates. It would apply to mushrooming war plants whose reserve for the payment of benefits is less than nine per cent of their average annual payrolls of the last three years.

Only a few hundred manufacturing plants would be affected, Atkinson said, and the one per cent maximum would apply only to about 30 manufacturers.

He cited in this classification the aircraft industries, which now comprise 10 per cent of the manufacturing activity in Ohio; powder plants, one of which increased 133,000 per cent and another 100,000 per cent in its employment, two or three Lake Erie shipbuilding yards, and new concerns manufacturing such instruments of war as anti-aircraft guns or barrage balloons.

Paul Daugherty, representing the Ohio Chamber of Commerce said that the chamber felt that "a schedule proposed by Atkinson should be enacted to prevent any post-war dislocations."

George B. Hammond, speaking for the Ohio council of retail merchants, said that the bill would not work a hardship on small business, those in non-war industries or those in retail fields.

COLUMBUS—(P)—Mrs. Ruby Evelyn Cremins, 23, will be arraigned Friday before U. S. Judge Mell G. Underwood on a charge of kidnapping eight-month-old Daniel Scanlon from St. Ann's infant asylum here last Oct. 12.

A federal grand jury indicted the Huntington, W. Va., woman under the Lindbergh law yesterday but took no action in the case of another woman and four men held here in connection with the case. Asst. U. S. Atty. Ray J. O'Donnell said the five, accused of conspiracy in the abduction, would be released.

They are Herbert Chapman, 28, of Russell, Ky., his brother, Carl Chapman, 30, of Milton, W. Va., their nephew, Junior Chapman, 23, of Frazier's Bottom, W. Va., and William Kimble, 25, and his wife, Irene, 23, of Frazier's Bottom.

The son of 17-year-old Jean Scanlon was recovered at Portsmouth, on Dec. 5 when federal agents took Mrs. Cremins into custody.

In pleading guilty to kidnapping before a U. S. commissioner, Mrs. Cremins said she took the infant because she "fell in love with it."

ASKS DIVORCE, BLAMES LION

Wife, 17, Says Husband Liked Cub Better Than Her, 'Won't Live in Zoo.'

(By United Press) LOS ANGELES—Seventeen-year-old Mrs. Betty Phillips will never compete with her substitute for a lion in her husband's affections, she said today in naming a 130-pound African cub as co-respondent in her divorce action.

"The lion hung out in the bathtub, tipped up my satin sofa and pointed on the bed at night and I stood for it," said the pretty young bride.

"But when Byron said he liked the lion better than he did me, I thought it was time to move," And move she did.

If there was any meat around the house, "Felix Leo" got first choice, she said. Then came Mr. and Mrs. Phillips. "He ate more meat in one day than we did in a week," she said.

And with meat rationing in prospect, Felix Leo glowing every day, the future wasn't bright. "Whatever that lion didn't eat," she said, "it certainly wasn't starvation."

Married last July and now expecting a child, Mrs. Phillips said she never again would feel safe in her husband's home. Everytime she opened the door, she said, she would wonder whether, like that other day last summer, she would find a lion twirling in her bathtub or perhaps a python hanging from the chandelier.

"I wanted a home, not a zoo," she related.

Her nightmares were genuine, Mrs. Phillips reported. "It's annoying when a pet dog jumps onto your bed at night, but when you see a lion staring you in the face, well—"

REJECTIONS OF SELECTEES HIT 40 PER CENT

WMC Points to Complication Despite Relaxing of Army Standards.

(By Associated Press) WASHINGTON—One reason the manpower pinch is going to hit some homes sooner than generally expected, is the number of rejections under selective service—now running more than 40 per cent of those examined, the war manpower commission says.

Here's the record: Approximately one-half of the first 2,000,000 registrants examined were rejected as physically or mentally unfit, nearly 21 per cent were turned down for dental defects, nearly 14 per cent because of their eyes.

Then, early last year, the army lowered its eyesight and dental standards. The rejection figure for the period of May through December was a shade over 34 per cent.

The new increase is attributed to a trend to older men, including married men without children.

A special committee studying the manpower problem for President Roosevelt is reported authoritatively to have agreed that the present military goal—10,800,000 men in the armed forces by the end of this year—must be retained.

Rejection of athletes by army doctors has centered attention again on the army's physical standards. Leo Durocher, manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers baseball team, was turned down because of a perforated eardrum, other ball-players have been rejected because of hernia.

Some of the other reasons for rejection on physical grounds as listed by the army, in addition to more apparent disabilities, include:

Chronic sinus trouble, severe hay fever, stammering or stuttering, ulcer of the stomach or Duodenum.

What about rehabilitation of rejects?

More than a year ago selective service headquarters, in response to a request from the president, made plans to rehabilitate some 200,000 rejects.

But now the program is dormant because of a shortage of doctors.

DRIVER HURT

Mansfielder Injured as Car Strikes Parked Vehicle.

When his vision was obscured by a frosted windshield, Scott Zimmerman, 30, of 64 Mansfield avenue, told police last night, his auto struck the parked car of Vernon Castor, 65½ Arch street.

Patrolman Richard Hecht took Zimmerman to General hospital for treatment for facial and scalp cuts suffered when he was hurled against the steering wheel and windshield by the impact.

Lester Huston, 61 Wood street, will appear in traffic court Wednesday afternoon following his arrest by Patrolman William Taylor on the charge of unsafe operation. The affidavit was signed by Dr. L. A. Hantzenroeder who says his auto was struck by a truck operated by Huston on North Mulberry street.

Patrolmen Arthur Conady and John Gloff reported that an auto which struck a taxicab driven by William Scott, 181 Sycamore street, bore a license issued to Charles Schwartz, 36 Hedges street. The taxi driver told police he was double-parked in front of the Merry-go-round cafe, North Main street, waiting for a fare, when the other car backed into his cab and then drove away.

PLYMOUTH—Funeral services for Jennie Stone West, 69, who died Sunday evening at the home of her sister, Mrs. Ida Cheeseman, with whom she resided, will be conducted from that home at 2 p. m. Wednesday. Rev. E. R. Haines, pastor of the Methodist church, will officiate. Burial will be in Greenlawn cemetery.

O LIVE WITH LOVE +++

CHAPTER XI

Carol appeared outraged, probably would laugh at arched words came to her but did not utter them—e hurt him. Hurt him? Carol's care if she hurt him? Because her own sense had been so trampled that she had a horror of anyone?

She was conscious of her quickening as she glanced around the station where people to the authority of the For him to ask her here blue place, old and shabby unt, for him to be so frank so gentle, was admirable than the opposite. Carol he had staged no nice way the others were. Then I discovered that you were both intelligent and adorable—and I wanted you."

"You don't even pretend to be in love with me."

"I am in love with you, but I don't know if I love you. I'm not asking you to be unfaithful to anyone because you have no one to be unfaithful to—unfortunately for me. The longer I stayed away, the more desirable you became to me. Do you think I'm crude because I haven't made a pretty speech or touched you or filled you with several potent cocktails? All day I've been thinking of the two of us together somewhere. . . . It's the pleasantest thing I can imagine."

She lowered her eyes. A year ago she'd have walked away, shaking with a cold fury. Now she sat quietly, curious and fascinated by his calm and casual reasoning. To a passer-by they doubtless looked as though they were having a most banal conversation.

Clive straightened, crossed and uncrossed his long legs. He smiled at her kindly. "It's bound to be someone. I won't hurt you, Carol. I'll never hurt you."

"That isn't true. You would hurt me if I loved you—which isn't likely. You'd hurt me as you hurt the girl in New York each time you go away. One man is enough for a woman, but one woman isn't enough for a man. You wouldn't marry me, would you?"

"I don't want to marry anybody."

She saw him glance at the clock. He smiled again. "Do I take the next train or . . ."

"Does it matter very much to you?"

"I had a case. I presented it. If you turn me down, you'll be the greater loser."

"You conceit . . ."

"I understand women. I'm sorry for them. I know the things in which men fail them. I know the futility of the romantic ideal. I know the cursedness of possessive women. Women can't live for a moment, however lovely and complete. They are always thinking of next week or next year. Nothing is ever repeated with the same joy and fulfillment. Carol, that's one thing women can't get through their heads."

She nodded. Then she said, "But you are taking the next train, Clive. I don't know why I'm not angry. But I'm not. Perhaps it's because I'm not surprised at anything. Perhaps, too, because of the way you have said it." She shook her head. "I can't, Clive, because I'm not good at lying and scheming and saying I am someone I'm not. I'd make a mistake. Besides, I'm still in love with Bill. I'm not possessive about him, but I still feel that I am one of his possessions. Perhaps like something you put up in the attic but which still belongs to you. And all of Bill's possessions heretofore have been as clean and as forthright as he is. That's the way I've got to be."

"No one can afford to turn down a real devotion and admiration, Carol."

"You are perfectly right. There isn't enough to go around."

"The train," he said and smiled as he arose.

At the gate he said, "It just occurred to me that we haven't had dinner. I'm sorry. You probably are starving."

"I'm not, really. I'd forgotten to."

"May I kiss you?"

Before she could answer, he kissed her lightly on the lips and turned and left her. He did not glance back.

She thought, "There goes Clive. I'll never see him again because I can't meet his terms and he doesn't want to see me again unless I do."

Would she ever want to call him

THEATERS

Continues at Ohio.

"Keeper of the Flame" starring Spencer Tracy and Katharine Hepburn, continues today at the Ohio. Steve O'Malley (Tracy), crack foreign correspondent for a leading metropolitan daily, learns of the accidental death of Robert Forrest, famous American O'Malley visits the Forrest estate. He discovers that Forrest was a German sympathizer. He realizes that this would be the greatest story of his career, but he tries to keep it from the public because of his feeling for Forrest's wife.

Dramatic Presentation.

"Commandos Strike at Dawn," now showing at the Madison, vividly presents the tactics of the toughest fighting men in the world. Paul Muni, a native of Norway, escapes to England after the Germans invade his native land. He is placed in command of the Commandos, and leads a dramatic attack on Nazi held Europe. "Cinderella Swings In," starring Guy Kibbee, is the co-feature.

O'Brien-Murphy.

"The Navy Comes Through," is the current top hit at the Park. It is the story of the American Merchant Marines. Pat O'Brien and George Murphy play the leading roles, supported by Jane Wyatt, Jackie Cooper, Maxie Baer, and Carl Esmond. "Scattergoods Survives a Murder," starring Guy Kibbee, is the second attraction.

Opens at Ritz.

One of the most unusual mystery tales to come to the screen is "The Undying Monster," opening tomorrow at the Ritz. Based on legends of the werewolf, a mythical monster who changes from human into savage, blood-thirsty beast, the picture promises to be a chiller. Walter Pidgeon stars in the co-hit, "Dark Command."

'Rio Rita' On Assembly Line

Ethelred Terry, the original "Rio Rita" of the Ziegfeld musical comedy of that name, is shown here handling a bomb control panel on the Vega Aircraft assembly line in Burbank, Cal. Miss Terry earns 60 cents an hour. As a Ziegfeld beauty her salary is $2,500 a week. But she is happy to be doing her bit.

Michigan Moves to Provide First Home for Governor

LANSING — (UPI) — Michigan, which has gone over 100 years without a governor's mansion, is finally getting around to providing room and board for its chief executives.

A bill now pending before the 62nd State Legislature would appropriate $50,000 to buy and remodel a Lansing home. Legislators favor purchase of the Turner homestead, which was rebuilt 15 years ago as a replica of M. Vermon, the home of George Washington. The home contains spacious living quarters, servants' rooms, an elevator, basement vault, and two types of heating systems in addition to air-conditioning for summer months.

The bill proposing purchase of the home, introduced by Senator Carl F. Lano, Kalamazoo, also appropriates $100,000 to purchase adjoining property where the state would erect a building to house the Michigan historical museum and archives.

DIDNT KNOW SONS JOINED

VENTURA, Cal. — (UPI) — Mrs. Jessie B. Winkler didn't know that she had two sons who were fighting for Uncle Sam. The first knowledge she had that they were in the Army was when the news came that they had been taken prisoners by the Japanese. They had been working in the Philippines as engineers and joined the army there when war came.

144 Teams Still In Tournaments

Half of Last Year's Finalists Continue.

By FRITZ HOWELL

COLUMBUS, (AP)—Ohio's annual schoolboy classic, the State High school basketball tournament, goes into the district tournament phase this week with 144 of the 144 teams still in there pitching.

Loudonville, perennial hotbed of basketball, has come up with another hoop harassing satellite this season, replete Tom Mowery.

Young Mowery led the Central Buckeye league with 119 points, an average of 14.85 per loop trip. And he paced the Red Birds in regular season play with 166 points, an average of 12.77.

He is called the surest "sucker shot" artist ever seen in those parts. From the floor he connected on .318 per cent of his shots, while he canned 43 out of 60 free tosses.

Now these figures may not appear too remarkable compared with those compiled by Andy Philip, the illustrious Illini. But like Abbott and Costello's little girl, who is only three and a half years old, Loudonville's Tom Mowery is only a high school sophomore.

And figures like these compiled by a high school sophomore are something to write down in the future book and mull upon.

What he is apt to do as a junior and a senior already has Red Bird backers predicting a total eclipse of all Central Buckeye records.

And what is the secret of young Tom's success as a sucker shot artist? The same old story, practice.

Mowery has a bucket hanging from his garage, and practices dunking the punkin all summer long.

Whenever you find an outstanding basketball shot, you will usually find a bucket in the back yard. And when you find a town consistently putting out top flight cage teams, you find a town with back yards full of buckets, towns like Mt. Vernon, Newark, and Zanesville for instance.

Our Andy Lamoreaux has a bucket on his garage at Maple and Euclid, and there's a bucket across the street from him on Euclid and around the corner on Highland around there's a bucket hanging from the garage at the Hess mortgage.

But just having a bucket on the garage is no sure stepping stone to stardom in the hoop game, and neither is practice guaranteed to bring this result.

Andy Lamoreaux of course has developed into quite a boy under the bucket for the Tigers.

Drop Spring Sports

SHELBY—The Shelby Whippets will follow the lead of the other schools in the North Central Ohio league and hold spring football drills but will drop other spring sports except on an intramural basis.

Of the survivors, 66 are in Class A and 78 in Class B. Sixteen will emerge in each class this week from the "Lose and Out" series, progressing to the regional scraps scheduled March 20.

Half of last year's 32 finalists are still in the running, nine in Class A and seven in Class B. In Class A, after hitting the heights in 1942, are Xenia Central, defending champion with a 15-2 record; Toledo Central Catholic, last year's runner-up; Akron Kenmore, Greenfield McClain (14 wins), Medina, Warren, Lakeswood, Canton, Lehman and Steubenville.

Class B clubs with a chance to repeat include Lorain Clearview (18 wins), Wyoming, Yorkville, Webster Twp. of Wood county (19 wins), Tipp City and Latham Western Rural.

North Canton, 1939 Class B champion, which paced the Class A clubs through the season with 19 victories, fell 33-31 before Lorain as measles weakened the team, and Amherst ended Eaton's 17 game streak in Class B, 41-35.

Martins Ferry, 1941 champion, has 21 in a row in Class A. Detroit has 19, and Greenfield 14, but all the others have been defeated.

Among the Class B leaders, one defeated, are Plain City 26, Pickaway Twp. 18 and Ulica 20, all in the Central district; Lorain Clearview and Champion, 18 each, Midalept 21, and Webster Twp., 19.

Surprises were a dime a dozen in last week's sectionals, proving that anything can happen when season's records are tossed aside and the chips go down in the tournaments. In front, beaten out during the year, was eliminated in an in-and-out tournament club, 35-32, Portsmouth, which won only three during the campaign is among the southeast district's four survivors; and Dayton Stivers, winner of one of 15 games, upset both Hamilton and Dayton Wilbur Wright, who between them had copped 19 and lost 13.

Class A survivors of district play will split into squads of four to play regional meets March 20 at Zanesville, Kent, Bowling Green and Dayton, while the Class B squads will wage regionals at Athens, Kent, Bowling Green and Springfield.

Each regional will send one survivor to Columbus March 27 for the state championship trays.

Surprise Due Phil Owner

If He Thinks They Play As He Outlines.

By DULON GRAHAM

NEW YORK (AP)—Philadelphia has had a drought of good baseball teams and now it has a drought.

Excuse it, folks, but the Phils' new owner carries the middle p in a lot of Draughts. William D. French Cox.

But Bill insists there will not be a drought of fresh ideas with the Phils.

Before the franchise was actually delivered to him, the 33-year-old lumberman was outlining his ideas.

The Phils were going to be the best conditioned club in the major leagues.

They were going to be streamlined speedsters with stamina, all right, and cross-country, but they would quack the pounds of them. They would be able to play long, and harder than any rival club.

The Phils would be so fast on the bases they'd make the Cardinals baseball's swiftest-footed outfit, look like a slow freight.

The new owner would be an old hand at the game. He'd been in a front row box seat at every game watching every player's performance on every play. And after each game he'd rush into a huddle with his manager.

Cox would criticize plays he regarded as sloppy or strategy that appeared poor. And then it would be the manager's turn to admit his error or convince Cox that he himself was wrong. The Phils are going to play it his way. Of course, if his manager advances him he's wrong, then they'll play it the manager's way but then he'll be in agreement and it still will be his way, Cox explains.

Cox is rather an impatient person who moves in a hurry and it wouldn't be too surprising some afternoon to see him vault out of his box onto the field to argue with the umpire.

He did that once in football. A couple of years ago he owned the New York Yankees, professional

Greg Rice Churns New Distance Record

WASHINGTON — (AP)—The muscular legs of little Greg Rice churned another world indoor record into the books today—an 11 minute, 23.3 second clocking for 2 1/2 miles.

Absolutely unchallenged, the tiny mechanical man from Notre Dame finished two full laps ahead of his closest competitor last night in the 10th annual Catholic university games to clip 9.5 seconds from his own previous mark of 11:32.6.

Doherty Frat Ties For 2nd

Lose 1-2 Match But Climb In Loop Race.

Doherty Fraternity won only one game last night but moved into a second place tie with Tracy-Avery in the Club bowling league at Colony alleys when the Grocers were blanked by Page Dairy.

Mansfield Savings boosted its league lead to four games.

Although there were 19 games of 200 and better in the league, not one 600 string was posted. Art Hilborn setting the pace with 599. Jim Will rolled high game of 235.

Hurls Fast One At Axis

Bob Feller was known for his "smoke" ball as one of baseball's top pitchers when he was with the Cleveland Indians, but now he's hurling something a lot hotter and faster at the Axis. A chief specialist in the U. S. Navy, Bob found life as a physical instructor too tame and transferred to gunnery school. He's pictured above in a navy photo at his new post as captain of a battery of 40-mm. anti-aircraft guns on one of the newest battleships.

Sport Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

NEW YORK — (AP)—Maybe you didn't notice a little item in the papers the other day saying that Peter Manning had died at Hanover, Pa. He was 27, a ripe old age for a trotting horse. Perhaps you don't even remember Peter Manning, but two decades ago he held the same place in the hearts of harness racing fans that Greyhound holds today—a champion of champions, a holder of records—a big, well-proportioned horse with a shining light bay coat. He was a symbol of the attraction that harness racing holds for men, even city folks who couldn't hitch up a horse on a bet.

It was back in 1918 that William M. Wright of Chicago gave a two-year-old gelding his first trial over a mile track in Milwaukee. Peter Manning was timed in 2:10 then and when he went to Lexington, Ky., the next spring he was regarded as a favorite for the Kentucky Futurity.

Peter didn't race at Lexington, but Tommy Murphy, the famous trainer, sent him through a time trial in 2:06 1/4, and as a result Irving Gleason of Williamsport, Pa., bought the horse and put him under Murphy's care. From then until he retired, Peter Manning was virtually unbeatable.

In 1922 Peter lowered the world mile record from 1:58, made by Unhild, to 1:56 1/4, a record that stood until the Greyhound reached 1:56 in 1927.

In 1925 Peter Manning went over the half-mile track, a two-mile record of 4:15 1/4, that had stood for 15 years, and trotting only against time, lowered it to 4:10 1/4.

That mark also fell to Greyhound years later.

Peter Manning is dead, and horse lovers will regret his passing. But, after all, he must have had a pretty good life for a horse.

Fighter Gets His 9th Jap

Six Dollar Knife Saved Boxer's Life.

SAN DIEGO, Cal. — (AP)—Travis Billy Beauchamp of the Marines former top-flight lightweight boxer, furloughed home from Guadalcanal with wounds in one hand and a knee, today told how he killed his ninth Jap in hand-to-hand fighting.

The St. Louis boxer holds decisions over Wesley Ramey, Tippy Larkin, Big Boy Hogue, Mario Ramone, Red Cochrane, and Enrico Ventura, and the Japs are tougher than any of them, he says.

His ninth Jap came on a patrol Jan. 31, he related.

"We were following a stream up the island," he said. "We came on them pretty soon, all sleeping in fox holes. I began advancing toward the foxhole I'd been assigned, and I could hear shots ringing out as the other boys closed in. The shooting woke up my opponent.

"He popped out of that fox hole and looked me straight in the face from 10 feet away. Then he picked up a Luger 38 pistol and fired at me. The bullet hit me in the hand, ripping my middle finger.

"I made me drop my rifle, and there I stood.

"I jumped for the foxhole, jerking out the six dollar knife I'd bought in San Diego. The Jap shot again, and this time he hit me in the knee, but I was moving forward and I jumped down on him. I got that knife going, and that was all for Mr. Jap."

Beauchamp, 26, got his first two Japs shortly after arriving, he said. Both were snipers.

The next six came in a big skirmish shortly before the Marines withdrew in favor of the army.

Cubs Unworried By Foxx Quitting

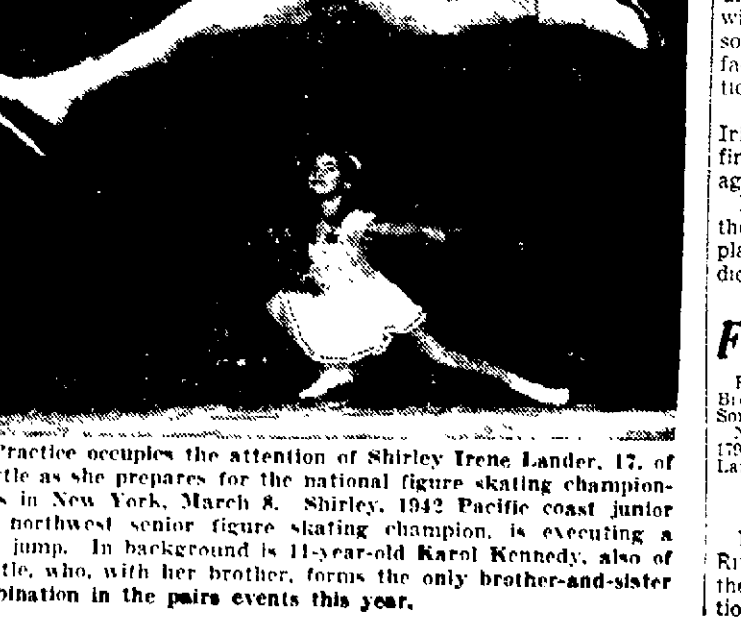

Manager Jimmy Wilson of the Chicago Cubs was in town today for conferences with General Manager James T. Gallagher and to prepare for the players' departure for their spring training camp at French Lick Springs, Ind.

Gallagher said he was not disturbed at the prospect of losing Jim Foxx who in Lewiston, Me., yesterday reiterated that he was through with baseball. Gallagher said:

"Foxx didn't figure largely in our plans for the season. On his showing last year he didn't stand to run Cavarretta or Becker off first base. And he didn't seem to take kindly to the idea of becoming a catcher. We're sorry to lose him, but the decision is his to make."

The Cubs will leave March 21 for French Lick.

O LIVE WITH LOVE +++

By Margaret Gorman Nichols
(Copyright, 1943)

CHAPTER XI
Carol appeared outraged, probably would laugh at her words came to her, but did not utter them. "You don't even pretend to be in love with me?" "I am in love with you, but I don't know if I love you. I'm not asking you to be unfaithful to anyone because you have no one to be unfaithful to—unfortunately for me. The longer I stayed away, the more desirable you became to me. Do you think I'm crude because I haven't made a pretty speech or touched you or filled you with several potent cocktails? All day I've been thinking of the two of us together somewhere. . . . It's the pleasantest thing I can imagine."

She lowered her eyes. A year ago she'd have walked away, shaking with a cold fury. Now she sat quietly, curious and fascinated by his calm and casual reasoning. To a passer-by they doubtless looked as though they were having a most banal conversation.

Clive straightened, crossed and uncrossed his long legs. He smiled at her kindly. "It's bound to be someone I won't hurt you. Carol, I'll never hurt you."

"That isn't true. You would hurt me if I loved you—as which isn't likely. You'd hurt me as you weren't acting the part."

He thought, "There goes Clive. I'll never see him again because I can't meet his terms and he doesn't want to see me again unless I do."

Would she ever want to call him?

hurt the girl in New York each time you go away. One man is enough for a woman, but one woman isn't enough for a man. You wouldn't marry me, would you?"

"I don't want to marry anybody."

She saw him glance at the clock. He smiled again. "Do I take the next train or?"

"Does it matter very much to you?"

"I had a case I presented it. If you turn me down, you'll be the greater loser."

"You conceit . . ."

"I understand women I'm sorry for them. I know the things in which men fail them. I know the futility of the romantic ideal. I know the cursedness of possessive women. Women can't live for a moment, however lovely and complete. They are always thinking of next week or next year. Nothing is ever repeated with the same joy and fulfillment. Carol, that's one thing women can't get through their heads."

She nodded. Then she said, "But you are taking the next train. Clive. I don't know why I'm not angry. But I'm not. Perhaps it's because I'm not surprised at anything. Perhaps, too, because of the way you have said it." She shook her head. "I can't, Clive, because I'm not good at lying and scheming and saying I am someone I'm not. I'd make a mistake. Besides, I'm still in love with Bill. I'm not possessive about him, but I still feel that I am one of his possessions. Perhaps like something you put up in the attic but which still belongs to you. And all of Bill's possessions heretofore have been as clean and as forthright as he is. That's the way I've got to be."

"No one can afford to turn down a real devotion and admiration, Carol."

"You are perfectly right. There isn't enough to go around."

"The train," he said and smiled as he arose.

At the gate he said, "It just occurred to me that we haven't had dinner. I'm sorry. You probably are starving."

"I'm not, really. I'd forgotten to."

"May I kiss you?"

Before she could answer, he kissed her lightly on the lips and turned and left her. He did not glance back.

She thought, "There goes Clive. I'll never see him again because I can't meet his terms and he doesn't want to see me again unless I do."

Would she ever want to call him?

Michigan Moves to Provide First Home for Governor

LANSING — (UP) — Michigan which has gone over 100 years without a governor's mansion, is finally getting around to providing room and board for its chief executives.

A bill now pending before the 62nd State Legislature would appropriate $500,000 to buy and remodel a Lansing home. Legislators favor purchase of the Turner homestead, which was rebuilt 15 years ago as a replica of M. Vernon, the home of George Washington. The home contains spacious living quarters, servants' rooms, an elevator, basement vault, and two types of heating systems in addition to air-conditioning for summer months.

The bill proposing purchase of the home, introduced by Senator Carl F. Lano, Kalamazoo, also appropriates $100,000 to purchase adjoining property where the state would erect a building to house the Michigan historical museum and archives.

some 350 miles below Moscow. Soviet dispatches said the Germans were throwing strong forces into a series of furious counterattacks and had attained numerical superiority at some points.

There was no confirmation, however, of Nazi claims that German vanguards had stormed back within 12 miles west of Kharkov, the biggest prize of Russia's 111-day-old winter offensive.

Reach Dnieper In Drive On Vyazma

MOSCOW—(AP)—The Red army, driving west of recaptured Sychevka, the central front west of Moscow, has reached the Dnieper river northwest of the important German base at Vyazma, it was disclosed today.

A dispatch to the Communist party newspaper Pravda from this sector pointed out the Russian troops pressing hard on the heels of the Germans gave them no respite and drove to the waterway which extends from the central front down through the Ukraine past Kiev and Dnepropetrovsk to the Black sea.

The Russians were already east and northeast of Vyazma after advancing through Gzhatsk.

The capture of Sychevka, 35 miles north of Vyazma on the railway to Rzhev, was announced in a special communiqué last night, and the offensive then lashed west and southwest from Sychevka, it was indicated.

Hitting hard along the railroad between Gzhatsk and Vyazma, the Soviet forces battered their way into the railway station of Sergo-Ivanovskaya, 24 miles northwest of Vyazma, while advance mobile units of the Red army in the sector west of Gzhatsk thundered into 20 villages along the old Smolensk road.

All of these drives fast were building a Russian arc about Vyazma, last of the German bastions to stand in the old Rzhev-Vyazma-Velikiye Luki triangle.

South of this front, the Russians said they took more settlements west and south of Lgov, below Arel. In the latter area the Germans were reported throwing troops in a series of furious counterattacks, using forces they have been able apparently to shift from other fronts.

had established overwhelming aerial superiority in the zone north of Australia.

The warnings were pointed by an attack by nine Japanese bombers and 13 Zero fighters in the Buna sector in New Guinea yesterday, when the raiders swept over Allied positions and sank a small cargo vessel.

Allied interceptor planes shot down a bomber and a fighter, it was announced.

Other United Nations fliers attacked Japanese bases in Dutch New Guinea, in the Timburi Islands, on Timor Island and at Finschhafen in northeast New Guinea.

On the Burma front, Field Marshal Sir Archibald P. Wavell's headquarters reported that Japanese jungle fighters had slipped through British lines and occupied a forest night 20 miles northeast of Rethelung, 35 miles above the Japanese base at Akyab on the Bay of Bengal.

Mrs. Wavell's advance forces, slowly thrust back into Burma from India, had previously reached the Rethelung area before meeting stiff Japanese resistance.

A communiqué said the Japanese apparently attempting to outflank the British, suffered casualties under strafing by RAF planes.

U. S. Planes Hit Jap Burma Installations

NEW DELHI—(AP)—U. S. fighter planes struck at enemy installations in northern Burma yesterday with machine gun fire and light bombs, while RAF bombers raided a Japanese detachment near Kanchauk, 20 miles northeast of Rethelung, in western Burma, communiqué issued today said.

The village of Wa Hai was bombed by the Americans and a large building was destroyed, and bombs were dropped on Maing-kwan, in northern Burma 120 miles west of the Chinese border.

Last Saturday American fighters attacked Indian on the upper Chindwin river, causing two fires, the communiqué said.

Allied fliers struck again at the Goteik railway viaduct between Mandalay and Lashio, railroad of the Burma road, on Sunday, scoring three hits on the base of the bridge structure, it was announced.

The American planes returned safely from all the raids.

Japs Sink Allied Ship Near Buna

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN AUSTRALIA—(AP)—A Japanese air fleet of nine bombers and 13 Zero fighters swept in on the flank of Allied forces south of Buna yesterday and sank a small cargo vessel in Oro bay on the New Guinea coast, an Allied headquarters communiqué said today, pointing up official warnings it was dangerous to discount Japanese air strength in the southwest Pacific.

Allied planes intercepted the Japanese attack and shot down one medium bomber and one Zero. The war bulletin also announced 89 Japanese survivors of the battle of the Bismarck sea had been killed by Allied shore patrols after drifting ashore.

Allied airmen, meanwhile, carried out raids yesterday on Japanese positions in Dutch New Guinea on the Timburi Islands, on Timor Island, and at Finschhafen in northeast New Guinea, the communiqué said. No enemy aerial interception was noted.

When Yank Troops and Tanks Attacked Sened

The entire horizon is ablaze as German and Italian artillery send clouds of flame (top) across the path of the Yanks as they move up to take the strategic railroad town of Sened, in central Tunisia. The silhouetted figures are Americans. U. S. armored vehicles are bombed and strafed by Nazi planes (bottom). The smoke in center is from two enemy craft shot down. Mounds of earth are bomb craters and fox holes. The Allies held the strategic railroad town several weeks, and were then given orders to withdraw.

SUSPECT HELD

Man, 40, Accused of Molesting West Fourth Woman.

One alleged molester was in custody of police today while a search was being made for the youth who fled in alarm at the screams of a 12-year-old Miller street girl last night.

Patrolmen John Grohol and Carl Beard arrested a 40-year-old man driving a blue sedan after a West Fourth street young woman furnished the license number and advised police she would sign an affidavit. The man is being detained for further investigation.

The Miller street girl told Patrolmen Don Mitchell and John Steel that while she and a girl companion living on Lafayette street were en route from a picture show they were joined by an 18-year-old boy. After her companion left them, the Miller street resident said, the boy dragged her into an alley garage. He was routed by her screams before any offense could be committed, the girl said.

On Wednesday night the southeast section will be tested and on Thursday night the northeast area will be dimmed out.

OCB officials appreciated the lack of pedestrian travel during last night's test and hope for the same public co-operation throughout. Motorists generally operated on dim lights but several were stopped for rather pointed instruction.

Detective Lee Remy, driving a police cruiser aflame with lights in order to test the tests, reported being "pounced upon by a small army of wardens who told us to dim our lights or park our car."

Bolton Hopes U. S. Won't Go Too Far In Post-war Charity

GRANVILLE (AP) Rep. Francis Bolton (R) of Cleveland hopes "the United States will not assume the role of a WPA in the whole world" after the war.

LOYAL FRENCH KILL 200 NAZIS IN OPEN REVOLT

selves in a grenade attack on the Lille casino, while in Paris other bands surrounded four houses occupied by Germans and hurled grenades through the windows.

The casualties in the Paris attacks were not learned but several ambulances were seen late in front of the dwellings.

One group of French guerrillas overpowered Nazi sentries in a pitched street battle, then broke into a German garage on the Rue De La Borde, the fighting French said. They remained in the garage for more than an hour destroying scores of vehicles and withdrew only after setting the building afire.

French civilians in the vicinity refrained from giving an alarm and the guerrillas escaped without casualties.

The Dakar radio said crowds of French stormed trains in the Marseille and Lyon regions in an attempt to prevent their departure for Germany with French slave workers.

Unrest also was rampant in other German-occupied countries. According to reports reaching London, developments included:

Belgium—Jan Akkers, a pro-Nazi Flemish publisher, was murdered in Brussels. Nine hundred men in one province have been drafted to serve in the Axis armed services.

Norway—Quisling Norwegian border police are now using bloodhounds in their efforts to prevent Norwegian men from crossing into Sweden to escape the German labor draft. Ten women were among the latest batch of 150 Norwegian prisoners sent to Germany.

Poland—Seven towns have been obliterated by the Germans in the manner of Lidice as result of increased sabotage and murders of German officers.

of cultural and historic interest were destroyed."

A Canadian flier on the raid said "I saw one really big explosion, at least 20 times the size of the usually heavy bombs burst."

Nuremberg is one of the chief German centers for production of the Diesel engines which power submarines and factories there also produce armored vehicles, aircraft engines, electric motors, searchlights and firing devices for mines. There is also a Messerschmitt factory at Fui in the Nuremberg area.

In the Feb. 25 raid, the last heavy blast at the city since last August, a large force of bombers cascaded tons of explosives.

The number of planes which the Nazis claimed to have destroyed indicated in itself the raid was carried out in force.

The Vichy radio said British planes also were over the Netherlands.

The RAF raid last night, which came as Britain enjoyed another night free from attack by enemy planes, was a swift follow-up to a smashing assault by American Flying Fortresses and Liberators yesterday on the important railway centers of Rouen and Rennes in France.

The big American bombers were credited with shooting down more than a score of German fighter planes. RAF and Allied fighters which escorted the bombers were reported to have brought down five additional enemy planes.

Allied losses consisted of four bombers and two fighters.

Sandwiched in between the American daylight attack on France and last night's assault on southern Germany was a dusk raid by RAF Mosquito bombers on railway targets at Lingen in northwest Germany and Asnoy near Valenciennes in northern France. One bomber was lost in this foray.

FREMONT—(AP)—Fremont's only "village smithy," 90-year-old John Homan hasn't shed a horse for many years, but his 74th year of blacksmithing finds him busy with war industry work from nearby army bases at Camp Perry and Erie Proving Ground.

Homan who worked at Colina, O., and for a time as brakeman and freeman on the old C. M. & C. from Cayahoga Falls to Columbus says he expects to work "for a few more years and enjoy life as fully as he does now."

The aged blacksmith, born in Knox county in 1853, still reads without spectacles, listens to his radio, and enjoys his membership in a neighborhood pinocle club. He is the oldest member in the Catholic Knights of Ohio.

Of Tired Kidneys

If backache and leg pains are making you miserable, don't just complain and do nothing about them. Nature may be warning you that your kidneys need attention.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking excess acids and poisonous waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

If the 15 miles of kidney tubes and filters don't work well, poisonous waste matter stays in the blood. These poisons may start nagging backaches, rheumatic joints, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or acute pressure with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

Don't wait! Ask your druggist for Doan's Pills, used successfully by millions for over 40 years. They give happy relief and will help the 15 miles of kidney tubes flush out poisonous waste from the blood. Get Doan's Pills.

SILENT ABOUT BABY'S DEATH

Mother Won't Tell Why She Took Child's Life.

LOS ANGELES—(INS)—Unemotionally Mrs. Rosary Shello, 22, today refused to discuss with police why she placed her two-week-old son on a breadboard and virtually hacked off his head with a bread knife.

A police psychiatrist said that the woman, who is being held on suspicion of murder, revealed, however, that she had been brooding for a week before the infanticide. Her husband, Joe, 26, shipyard worker, told police Mrs. Shello awakened him and quietly declared: "Joe, I've killed the baby."

"I don't know why she did it," Shello said.

QUAKE SHAKES CITY'S HOMES

Earth Tremors Rattle Dishes and Windows; No Damage Reported in Area.

ning pointed out that the quake would have made the air raid test more realistic and might have caused some alarm had it occurred two hours earlier.

The quake was felt almost six years to the hour after severe tremors shook western Ohio on March 9, 1937, for nearly eight minutes.

Last night's quake was the first severe tremor in Cleveland since Feb. 28, 1925, when tall buildings in the downtown area swayed.

In Detroit, Mich., tremors last night were recorded at 11:27 p. m. and hundreds of telephone calls flooded newspaper offices and police stations as Detroiters wanted to know if the city was being bombed.

The quake was felt throughout Ohio, northern West Virginia, western Pennsylvania and New York, and southern Michigan.

Rev. J. S. Joliat, S. J., seismologist at John Carroll university, reported the quake to be at the surface variety, and to have originated somewhere 20 to 30 miles southwest of Cleveland. He also pointed out that the breaking of strata crust or rock strata some distance beneath the surface could have been the cause.

"Not a series of movements but one continuous shaking," was the way Dr. J. J. Nassau, professor of astronomy at Case School of Applied Science, described the vibrations. Dr. Nassau claimed that it was the most severe he had ever experienced in Cleveland. No damage was done, firemen reported.

Central police station at Cleveland was swamped with hundreds of calls last night shortly after the earthquake was felt and telephone operators just pulled down the keys and told all who were calling: "There has been an earthquake; there is no more danger."

"I know there was an earthquake," one caller yelled. "I have been calling you again and again to report my husband is beating me and I want the police."

Police were dispatched.

They've Got What it Takes

THEY call 'em "cloud hoppers"—these keen, alert glider pilots of the Army Air Force. Like so many Americans, they're learning an entirely new job—and proving they've got what it takes. It's the same all along the line—on the home front, too, millions are proving that good old American "know how" just can't be beat! And that goes for cigarettes, too. For when you take costlier tobaccos and that priceless "know how" of blending that produce a slow-burning cigarette, you've got the cigarette for steady smoking pleasure... Camels. Try Camels yourself—you'll find they give you smoking pleasure that holds up, pack after pack.

I WANT A CIGARETTE THAT'S EASY ON MY THROAT AND HAS LOTS OF FLAVOR... AND THAT'S CAMEL. THEY'RE GRAND!

CHARLOTTE WILLAM, General Aircraft Corp. inspector, agrees with men in the service—Camels are her favorite, too. "From first puff to last, Camels are swell!" she says.

MEET THE GLIDER PILOT

His insignia is the airman's wings with the letter "G." His cigarette? This pilot at the right gives you an idea why men in all the services prefer Camels. Get a package of Camels and see if they don't suit you to a "T."

FOR EXTRA MILDNESS AND RICH FLAVOR... CAMELS HAVE WHAT IT TAKES! THEY SUIT ME TO A "T"

THE "T-ZONE" — where cigarettes are judged

The "T-ZONE"—Taste and Throat—is the proving ground for cigarettes. Only your taste and throat can decide which cigarette tastes best to you... and how it affects your throat. For your taste and throat are absolutely individual to you. Based on the experience of millions of smokers, we believe Camels will suit your "T-ZONE" to a "T."

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, TUESDAY, MARCH 9, 1943.

Stop to think—have you filed your income tax report?

Let's hope that none of the bread will be as "half-baked" as was the idea that all slicing should be done at home.

Stabilization of prices, wages and salaries has been agreed on as a national policy—leaving it wide open for some statesman to go down in history by remarking: "The only way to stabilize is to stabilize."

News That Will Not 'Aid the Enemy'

WITH all the effort being made to prevent loose talk that might aid the enemy, it sometimes seems that too many pictures and articles are printed, and too much information divulged about American war production.

When the military secrecy maintained in Russia, Germany and Japan is taken into account the frankness of the United States in broadcasting news of how many ships, planes, tanks, guns and other military supplies are being produced every day, week and month, may appear to disclose information that should be kept from the enemy.

The line of reasoning, however, is that such things as are being told are the very things that we want Hitler, Mussolini and Hirohito to find out as soon as possible—that the present and prospective output of all kinds of munitions of war in the United States, plus the production capacity of the other United Nations, is so tremendously large that the Axis powers cannot hope to compete against it.

It is not being kept secret, therefore, that we are turning out 175 war planes a day and that the rate is steadily increasing: that in January our war factories produced 80,000 Garand rifles; 27,000 50-caliber machine guns; 7,000 20-mm aircraft cannon; 68,000 submachine guns; 58,000 carbines—and so on.

The Axis partners should also know that during January the output of ton and half-ton bombs was 2,300 a day and that this can be continued indefinitely—and increased if necessary—thus dispelling any idea they may have that there will be lack of material to carry on the bombing of German cities and also to give similar attention to Japan's industrial centers when the proper time comes.

This is news for the Axis—the news for America is that the war can be shortened to the extent that the flow of war materials is increased and safely transported to the fighting fronts—thus hastening the "unconditional surrender" that must precede an end of hostilities.

Ban On Sliced Bread Lifted

NOW that ready-sliced loaves of bread are again to be available, for those who prefer them, probably the most regrettable thing about the whole business of banning commercially sliced bread for home use during the past couple of months is the additional distrust of compulsory restraints imposed by government agencies under the guise of war emergencies.

It now appears that any apparent "saving" made by requiring housewives to slice their own bread was more than offset by disadvantages of waste and loss of time.

So many half-baked ideas have been put into effect from time to time by various enthusiastic but juvenile-minded agencies of government that it is little wonder that public confidence becomes disturbed, making it increasingly difficult to gain full co-operation in vitally important war activities.

The ban imposed against cuffs on trousers is another of the rather inconsequential, but exasperating, restraints for which no good reason has yet been given—especially in view of reiterated statements that there is a plentiful supply of wool and other fabrics, and the overbuying of clothing that has been permitted.

English Language Has Possibilities

STUDY of the case of Mme. Chiang Kai-shek might well be made a postwar "must" in American educational circles—with a view to encouraging greater knowledge, and better use, of the English language in the United States.

It is no reflection on the potentialities of the American educational system to agree with the nationally expressed opinion that Mme. Chiang speaks the most perfect English that has been heard in the United States in many years, and that she is also more precise in the choice of words than is common to native speakers of unquestioned erudition.

For, as you already know, this remarkable Chinese woman was educated in this country, and thus serves as an example of what CAN be done by those who "set their mind to it"—always assuming that there is a mind to "set."

Her talk Sunday afternoon at Wellesley college, from which she was graduated in 1917, was momentarily interrupted by emotion which followed her introduction, but Mme. Chiang then proceeded with a talk that should be given place not only in the records of that college but also in the study of English in every school and college in the country.

Possibly it is in her early escape from an easily acquired vernacular that Mme. Chiang was fortunate. Possibly there is no real need for such excellent English as she uses. But probably there is a happy medium toward which schools and colleges might advantageously aim.

Pipe Cleaner Wire Goes To War

THERE seems to be more pipe smoking nowadays. At least some confirmed pipe smokers say they discern a trend in that direction, and are much pleased thereby. It is probably natural now that more attention than usual should be paid to this mild form of sedative. And special interest is evidenced, in some quarters, on the question of pipe-cleaners.

It seems that manufacture of these useful devices has been cut off, to save wire for the war. It would be a fascinating quest to go ahead on this line of research, and estimate how many thousand tons of pipe-cleaner wire will be turned to war uses. But such research must wait until more facts are available.

Word comes that when the tobacco supply gave out on the island of Malta, British officers began smoking dehydrated cabbage—serving as a reminder of those old-time campaign cheroots.

Rumors persist that the Axis is about to make a peace offensive—and anything the Axis does just now is offensive.

THE THIN VENEER OF CIVILIZATION

Spain's Franco on Very Hot Spot

By CHARLES P. STEWART
EL CAUDILLO Francisco Franco of Spain seems to be on an exceedingly hot spot. He was pro-Axis when the present war started, partly, probably, because he is himself, a Spanish version of a fuhrer or duce. Furthermore, he had a civil war of his own to fight, to get his caudillo-ship established, and Adolf Hitler and Benito Mussolini helped him.

I would not want to give Franco credit for any feeling of gratitude toward them, but early in today's conflict, he probably believed they were going to win. He afforded them some conveniences in the western Mediterranean and outspokenly sympathized with them, too, which perhaps has, in their case, a bit of immoral value also. Of late, though, Franco appears to have been shying away from the Axis.

That, likewise, is understandable. Obviously the Spanish dictator has changed his mind. His more recent judgment evidently is that the Axis is going to be licked. This is all to the good, for he is a first-rate soldier and his guess is not to be sneezed at. Anyway, when the Axis powers began to hunt at getting into North Africa, by way of Gibraltar, via Spain, Franco did not show much enthusiasm.

Contrawise, a few days ago, dispatches into Washington brought news of a conference between Spain and Portugal for a solid neutrality compact between them, including the entire Iberian peninsula.

FROM considerable familiarity with its people, I am convinced that Spain is democratic with the exception of its Franco government, but, from the United Nations' standpoint, its government has been a considerable worry right along.

Portugal is traditionally democratic. Those folk do not have to be stewed about. It is odd, they are geographically so closely associated, but it is true just the same. I have seen it from visits in both countries. Spain is democratic, but Portugal is more so. Portugal is not of much consequence, speaking of land-fighting value—too small and too few, and not enough natural resources to wad a shotgun.

Portugal does, to be sure, boast a nice long Atlantic coast line—ideal for German planes and submarines, our way.

The Germans, though, cannot get into Portugal except from behind, but through Spain.

That route would be corked up by anything other than a German-Spanish agreement.

All the same, cables relate that the Reich's troops are pouring through German-occupied France toward and across the Spanish frontier, obviously not to effect an occupation of Spain as they did in the Balkan nations.

Spain may not be so easy as the Balkans. It is more compact and stronger.

THERE is a strong suggestion that Caudillo Franco has anti-Axis cold feet at last—on his own account but, of course, for nobody else's. That, however, is immaterial.

Latin America certainly is what frets Franco. Spain is too tied up with its offspring on this side of the Atlantic to be disregarded. It is also sentimental. Well, that makes Caudillo Franco pause and consider.

Timely Editorial

Never Mind the Free Seeds.

There appears to be a suspicious amount of interest around the Capitol in the proposal to revive the free seed racket, advanced by the eminent "Cotton Ed" Smith, of South Carolina. Something should be done to halt what in another couple of days could gather an irresistible momentum.

It took four decades to kid out of existence this cheap-John device for campaigning at public expense. We should dislike to see it revived under circumstances that could hardly fail to cheapen the Victory Garden program, which is too important to be thus jeopardized.

There are plenty of reputable seedsmen whose products are available to the public at the modest price of a nickel or dime a packet. The claim that enabling congressmen to circulate their constituents with free seeds would promote war gardening is completely cynical.—Detroit News.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

Roosevelt Disclaims Fourth Term Ambition, Says He's Getting Old

WASHINGTON—Real truth about the famous meeting between Democratic national committee members and the president was that the president himself put forward the fourth term idea in a negative way, saying he could not take it. But committee members said the idea was put forward very much like the man who says he cannot come to dinner but wants to be urged.

There was no urging from any of the Democrats present except ex-Gov. Olson of California. From the rest came stony silence.

Here is the complete off-the-record story on one of the frostiest meetings between Democratic leaders and their chief in the ten long years of the Roosevelt administration.

Before they went to the White House, the leaders met at the Mayflower hotel to discuss their strategy. They had been selected by Frank Walker as the result of a stormy session of the entire committee in Chicago at which there was open revolt against the President, and at which it was decided to send a small delegation to the White House and tell him so.

Nine committee members were picked, plus five executives of the party. At the advance meeting at the Mayflower, it was suggested that one difficulty would be to keep the president from doing all the talking, and to get him to listen to the delegation's complaints.

Bill of Complaints.

SO FRANK WALKER suggested that three be appointed to do the talking. Frank McHale of Indiana agreed that this was a good idea, and suggested James Noe of Louisiana to represent the South. James Quigley of Nebraska for the West, and Mrs. Emma Guffey Miller of Pennsylvania for the East.

Apparently Walker thought these three were too forthright. He is understood to have had in mind Mrs. Carolyn Wolfe of Utah, O. S. Warden of Montana and ex-Gov. Olson of California, known to be more friendly to the president. So Walker shifted his suggestion to a previous one that the delegation draw up a written statement naming their complaints.

The strategy was that if the president did all the talking, then they could leave this bill of complaint with him.

So the bill of complaint was drafted. It began with this sentence: "Jimmy Noe says that the party is in a hell of a mess." Then for three pages, single-spaced, it proceeded to detail the woes of the party, casting vitriolic condemnation on Harry Hopkins, Madame Secretary Perkins, Gov. Rex Tugwell of Puerto Rico, Secretary of Agriculture Wickard, Governor of the Farm Credit Administration Black, and others. It was proposed that all of them be fired immediately.

During these discussions, McHale of Indiana, referred to Secretary Wickard as "cheap." He said he had gone to school with Wickard and he didn't know where the president got the idea to bring him to Washington and have him attempt to control food.

"He doesn't even know his way around Indiana, was McHale's cryptic remark.

When the delegation finally got to the White House, bearing their bill of complaints, they filed past the president's desk and he shook hands with each.

"You are shaking hands with the next governor of Louisiana," said Noe.

Fourth Term Suggestion.
TAKE good care of yourself, Mr. President," said Mrs. Miller of Pennsylvania. "The party will need you next year."

This was the first fourth term suggestion, but it got no reaction from anyone present. The president then proceeded to take the ball and run with it. The meeting lasted 45 minutes, during which he talked practically all the time. He cut the ground partly out from under his belligerent visitors by saying that he knew appointments under Leon Henderson and the Office of Price Administration had been reprehensible.

In fact, he castigated Henderson in such a way as to indicate that Henderson would never come back. He told how Henderson had appointed the treasurer of the Republican state committee to Georgia, Harry Sommers, as chief of OPA's Rationing Division in Georgia, and how another prominent Republican, Oscar R. Strauss of Atlanta, was in charge of OPA's Southeastern office.

The visiting Democrats listened patiently. They had heard these stories before, knew all about them and were a bit irked at the president's wasting this valuable time.

The president went on to explain in some detail how the Democratic party must begin preparing for the next election. He proposed to get a bill through congress liberalizing voting for the armed forces. He also pointed out that women had become a big factor in the country, in the munitions plants and on the political front.

"They are generally for us and if we play things right, they will be with us again," the president said. Then he added his most significant line. "We have got to pick someone to carry on the war and our domestic policies, and I hope it won't be me. I am getting old now," the president said.

"Mr. President," spoke up ex-Gov. Olson, who wants to be ambassador to Mexico, "you are the only man on the horizon as far as this country and the Democratic party are concerned. We need you. You are indispensable."

Mr. Noe No Yes-Man.

ROOSEVELT said nothing. Some of those present looked daggers at Olson. Then the president continued with his political discourse. Finally Noe of Louisiana interrupted. "Mr. President," he said, "we didn't come here to listen to you. My name is Noe, not a yes man. I want to tell you that if the elections were held today we would have the socks beaten off us in Louisiana."

The president picked up his car at this and asked Noe some questions. Quigley of Nebraska then squeezed in his two-cents worth. "Mr. President," he said, "speaking in the vernacular of wartime, I must tell you that you have lost your panzer divisions and today all you have left is your camp followers. What, for instance, are you going to do about all these Republicans on the payroll?"

"That is a problem," the president admitted, "but this is wartime and we have got to use Republicans as well as Democrats." He promised, however, that he would look into the matter further.

Predict Bricker for GOP.

THERE were some further discussions, during which it was agreed that Gov. Bricker of Ohio, was pretty sure to be the Republican candidate, and during which part of the political discontent was blamed on OPA rationing. The president seemed to think that the country would have to take rationing in its stride regardless of political consequences.

"Looking across at the rotund figure of Mr. Noe, the president observed, "It looks as if Jimmie Noe is eating all right down in Louisiana."

"You seem to be doing all right yourself, Mr. President," shot back Noe with a glance at the president's own rotundity.

After this meeting, the delegation had a private session at the Mayflower, during which most of them were boiling mad. They felt they had accomplished nothing. Quigley of Nebraska remarked, "This is the last time I spend my time and money to come East. After this I'll read what Roosevelt says in the newspapers back in Omaha."

Can Mother 'Make Over' Wilful Girl?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

We hear much of cultivating the utmost in "self-expression" in children in their growing years, even though the lesson of experience is that it is not good for all types of children.

I have a letter that sheds further light on this point:

"Dear Miss Fairfax: My daughter is 17 and has been seeing a young man of 26. Now that he is in the army, she wants to marry him before he goes overseas. He is very steady, has been successful in business, and I know he's the type to make her a fine husband.

However, I think Anne is too young to marry and that it would be distinctly risky, for she lacks balance, is headstrong and the only thing she sees in marriage is the thrill of being married to a man in the service. I'm seeing herself at a wedding with all the men in uniform, although she says she loves him.

I've tried about everything else. I have offered her a college education, but she wants none of that now. When Anne was a youngster I attended lectures given by one of these specialists in child care, who advocated 'absolute self-expression' for young children. When Anne threw a tantrum it was regarded as something before which parental objection should fade.

I realize now how wrong all this was. Anne should have been made to go to school, accept the discipline of home work, and when she screamed for something, it should have been the last thing given to her. Instead of that she had her own way, and this is the result. Can you help me, please, I'm all up in the air?

A Worried Mother"

This is only part of this mother's letter, in which she gives details of this young Miss, many escapades. The young man who wants to marry her "knows all." He is willing to accept Anne "as is," and rely on his own methods of converting a reckless, harum-scarum girl into a model wife. Of course, he will have to wait until the war is over, but he wants to be sure she'll be his wife, so he won't have to worry overseas.

Marriage depends on so many things besides the ages of the principals. Those in which both principals are approaching the so-called "age of discretion" also break up in divorces in an alarming number of cases. I think the mother's objection should be based on something more valid than Anne's youthfulness. She should consider this from the young man's viewpoint also. It may be that marriage will have a settling and sobering effect on Anne. Yes, it is a matter of doubt if the reason for it to be settling is going away, and must exert his influence by remote control. When he gets overseas and gets to thinking about Anne's escapades, he may be even more worried if she is his wife.

However, if this mother hasn't been able to control her daughter's actions up until now, it's a little late for her to begin. Probably Anne will do as she chooses. In that event, it's up to mother to make the best of things, and diplomatically and dutifully do what she can to insure Anne's happiness.

GLEE CLUB PRESENTS ANNUAL TEA PROGRAM

Miss Myrtle C. Booth Directs Business and Professional Women's Musical Program at Which Miss Mabel Zehner Is Guest Artist.

SUNDAY AFTERNOON in the First Presbyterian church the Glee club of the Business and Professional Women's club presented its annual tea program, with Miss Mabel Zehner, prominent Mansfield organist, as guest artist. Miss Myrtle C. Booth was the director of the glee club, which was accompanied by Mrs. Fred Cahall.

Miss Zehner played two groups of organ numbers. The first group consisted of "Grandmother, Knitting," by Clokey, and "Marche Slave," by Tchaikovsky. In her second group, Miss Zehner played "The Quiet of the Forest," by Runhan, and "Flight of the Bumblebee," by Rimsky Korsakoff. She closed with "Toccata," from the Fifth Symphony by Widor.

The theme song of the Glee club was its first number Sunday afternoon. It was entitled "Sundown," by Wilson. The first group included "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming," by Forest-Salter; "What's the Time, Blackbird?" by Herbert Oliver; "A Celtic Lullaby," by Hugh Robertson, and "Indiana," by Friml.

"Open the Blue Eyes," by Jules Massenet, "O Lovely Night (Barcarolle)" by Offenbach and "Sing Again," by Frotheroe-Cain made up the second group.

For the final group, the glee club sang "Callia" (A Motet) by Charles Gounod.

Tea was served by the ladies of the church, following the tea program, in the church auditorium.

Bad Breath, Its Causes And Cures

By MME. QUI VIVE

One of the strongest desires of a young girl is to be admired, to be popular among her friends. To fulfill these desires she takes the greatest pains to be attractive in appearance. She spends hours arranging the rolls and ringlets on her pretty head, tinting her lips, seeking chic and becoming clothes. But all these efforts amount to nothing if she carries a foul breath.

If she suffers from this affliction the mama should come forward, take a hand, see that something is done about it. There are many causes of an unpleasant breath and, for that reason, the family doc should be consulted. Nasal disorders, infected tonsils, intestinal sluggishness, digestive disturbances are common sources. An occasional medical examination is well worth while, not only for the middle-aged and the oldsters. An offensive breath may reveal a physical condition that should have immediate attention.

Perhaps the teeth are at fault. Careless brushing may not remove particles of food that lodge between the teeth. These particles set up a fermentation that will not only make the breath fetid, but will eat into the dentine, causing caries. Brushing should be thorough.

Sometimes it is necessary to use dental floss to remove foreign substances that have lodged between the teeth. In some cases they cling because decay of the tooth has taken place, leaving rough surfaces.

Every small cavity should be filled as soon as it is discovered. That saves pain, time and money. Tartar deposits should be removed twice a year; they will form despite the most fastidious grooming. Unless one has professional attention infections may result in other parts of the body. And there is always a possibility of an unpleasant odor prevailing.

The rule is to brush the teeth after each meal. It is especially necessary to do so before going to bed. After the brushing with dentifrice, use a mouth wash freely. Swish it about.

Many causes of bad breath may be of a simple nature, not likely to impair the health in any way. But why take a chance? Why not get at the root of the trouble, be free of it? One so afflicted is likely to develop social fear—fear of what others will think about one. Life becomes staid and wretched.

To sum up first see the dentist. Have a thorough examination, necessary repairs made. If the breath is still foul, see a medical man who will have no difficulty in finding the source and who will be able to suggest the proper remedies. Mouth hygiene is of the utmost importance to health. Do not neglect it.

"The Authority on Authorities"

SILENCE CONVEYS NEWS

What the declarer did not bid can tell you sometimes things which are just as important as anything you have heard. His silence can locate certain cards in the hand of your partner and guide you to a defense which would be impossible if you did not make use of the negatively-acquired information. Throughout the game, the fine player governs himself not only by what he sees and hears, but also by what he does not see and does not hear.

After the club J opening to the A and a lead of the spade 3, the Q winning, most players in the East would either return the remaining card of West's club suit or else a heart through South's holding. In either of those cases, South could set up and cash two spade tricks in the dummy, win the diamond finesse, score three club tricks and two hearts to make game.

East, however, seeing that he would surely get in twice more through spades, and remembering South's failure to bid No Trump until he heard about North's diamonds, counted on West for the diamond K which would enable him to beat the contract. So he returned the diamond 10 to the third trick. West was smart and put on the J to unblock. It forced the Q. When East won the second spade with the K, he led the diamond 3, and the K pushed out the A.

Now came the blow. The declarer had to make his third losing lead of spades, and when East took it with the A, he had two set-up diamonds, the 9 and 8, which defeated the contract. It is seldom that you see a player lead from that position right into an ace-queen in the dummy, but this time it was the right play.

"Pitfalls of Love"

(A Sequel to Marriage Meddlers) By ADELE GARRISON

I paused before answering Katharine's question, for I realized that the same query lurked in my 'sub-conscious'.

Mary, in that emotional scene with her husband of which I had been an unwilling witness, had seemed to settle the question of her wifely love and loyalty to him, compared to her career; but if Noel continued to "kick over the apple cart," as he had just done in making a scene because Mary was wearing an unbecoming gown for the forthcoming supper party in George's honor, I could not foretell Mary's reactions.

Noel's masculine vanity was wounded because his wife in that dress would not outshine every one else at the party, and show Georges what wonderful care her husband had taken of her. But I knew the high-spirited Mary could have to control her impulses rigidly lest she show Noel what charm she could exercise in the unbecoming gown she had donned in line with my suggestion that she "turn off her harm" at the party for Georges, and build up Olina as the center of attraction. For we both knew Olina was "eating her heart out" or Georges, playmate of her childhood and once her betrothed husband.

Possible Shoals Ahead. I told myself dully that Mary was as headstrong as a colt and had her full share of feminine vanity and romantic nonsense, and I could see, like Katharine, and there were possible shoals ahead in the marital sea of the young Noel Veritzens.

"If you mean," I answered, "only as last, that Mary is in danger of transferring her true love from Noel to Georges, the answer is no."

"I agree with you," Katharine said. "Her heart is, essentially, true to Poll." But both Georges and Mary are superlatives in good looks and charm, and have more than a spice of the devil in their make-ups. The combination is apt to develop emotional dynamite, and I imagine an explosion of that character is what you want 'any-thing else but.'"

"Right you are," I told her emphatically, and added dully,

"but I don't see what else I can do than what I've planned for to-night. Yet I'm afraid Noel's ridiculous vanity may spoil Mary's plan; make her change her mind."

Always an Actress.

"Not a chance in the world," Katharine said, with heart-warming optimism. "Above everything else Mary is an actress, remember, and she's already got her teeth in this role. She won't switch it. When I asked that question I didn't mean anything might happen tonight to upset Noel, or Olina, either. I was looking into the future. But what say we put away the crystal balls and snatch some sleep?"

"I think it's a splendid idea," I said, glad of her assurance about Mary's probable behavior at the party, and I burrowed my head into my pillow, resolved to postpone all my worries, and in a few minutes Katharine and I were both deep in slumber.

I knew nothing more until, at a loud knock on the door between the livingroom and my bedroom, Katharine was on her feet with the alacrity of the trained nurse. "I'll go," she said. "What shall I say?"

"It's Halloran," I said. "I told him to call me at ten after eleven. Just tell him thank you."

Then Katharine and I hurried out of our negligees and slippers into dresses and shoes, and had the living-room in meticulous order five minutes before the time set for Georges to be out of Halloran's hands.

Spencer Brings News.

But when a knock sounded on the door again and I went to the door, it was my father who entered.

"You may set your mind at rest about one thing," he said a bit grimly. "Steve Redfield will not bother your party tonight."

As the knock sounded again, and louder, Katharine opened the door a crack and spoke with pleasant courtesy.

"Thank you so much," she said. "Mrs. Graham and I will be ready for you to come in half-after-eleven."

"Okay!" Halloran answered, as the door closed.

FEDERAL WORKER DEFERMENT PLAN

President Gives OK on System Based on 'Key Positions' and Replacements.

(By United Press)

WASHINGTON - The White House announced yesterday that President Roosevelt has set up a system to govern the deferment of all federal employees.

In an executive order signed Saturday, Mr. Roosevelt specified that no federal employee can ask for his own selective service deferment. Instead there will be a committee for each government agency to determine "key positions" and the subsequent need for any deferments.

The executive order carried out a report prepared for Mr. Roosevelt by a special committee headed by Paul Bellamy, editor of the Cleveland Plain Dealer.

The executive order defined as key positions in the federal government "any position the performance of which involves serious difficulty of replacement."

In determining whether the services of a federal employee are essential, the various agency committees were instructed to consider "the actual effectiveness of the employee, the difficulty of replacing him, his age, his qualifications, his assignment to duties outside the continental United States and the length of his service in the position he occupies or in positions with comparable duties."

Voluntary entrance into the armed forces by federal personnel was placed under the agency committees, which must grant releases for employees desiring to volunteer. No change was made, however, in the normal process of induction of federal employees whose services are not regarded as essential.

Mr. Roosevelt also specified that no request should be made for deferments for longer than six months. He set up under War Manpower Commissioner Paul V. McNutt a review committee on deferment of government employees. The agency committee will submit to the review committee a list of essential positions. The review committee was given power to revise these lists as conditions warrant.

Included in the field of key positions were the posts where the work is "of essential administrative, executive or supervisory character" or "part of the actual production, transportation, or handling of war materials" and "professional, semi-professional, or highly specialized" in character. The "key position" label also was put on jobs requiring "male employees because of peculiar circumstances, or requisite physical abilities."

The various agency committees were instructed to release employees for voluntary entrance into the armed forces only if they were likely to be assigned to active combat or if their skills would be utilized equally or more effectively in the armed forces.

HARDY BLOOD DONOR

LAGUNA BEACH, Cal. (AP) - Mrs. Paul E. Neusebafer, 25, pedaled her bicycle a distance of 65 miles in order to make her blood donation to the Red Cross. She made the trip in five hours.

FIVE HUNDRED THOUSAND DOLLARS

During the year of 1942, The Lumbermens Mutual Insurance Company paid to its policyholders in dividends more than Five Hundred Thousand Dollars. We suggest to our policyholders that they invest at least a part of their dividends in War Bonds and Stamps.

The Company has an unbroken record of dividend payments to policyholders since the expiration of its first policy which was issued in 1895. Total dividends paid to policyholders exceed Fourteen Million Dollars.

If you own a home, furniture, a business, an automobile, or other insurable property, we invite you to investigate the possibility of reducing your present insurance costs with Lumbermens' dividend paying, non-assessable policies.

Our forty-eighth Annual Financial Report appears below.
